If you don't know your way around, you could get lost trying to make it through Canyon on U.S. 60, which is now undergoing a massive construction face-lift. The signs are numerous and often confusing.

Taxes could be hiked for county budget

Randall County Judge Woody Pond, chief budget officer for the county, said Friday he can't promise taxes won't be raised to finance the county's 1975 operations.

Pond, currently in the throes of compiling a preliminary budget for perusal by county commissioners, indicated inflation and fast-rising costs for various products are taking their toll on the income side of the budget ledger.

"It tentatively looks like we have enough money to operate through the year with the adjustments we made in rates of assessment," he said. "It's possible we'll have to do some further adjusting in the rates of assessment or, if the economy doesn't level off, possibly we'll have to do some re-evaluation.

"But, we're going to try to hold the line on expenses and see if we can keep them in line. It's possible we won't be able to with the rise in the cost of operation. We'll just have to do the best we can."

August and September are traditionally the months when Pond and commissioners work on producing a budget for the coming year.

This year, they are not alone in a struggle to balance a budget. Randall County School Board members are already bracing the public for a tax increase of as much as 10 cents per $100 valuation.

But, the chore is increasingly harder for the county, an entity which ever since the late 1960s has been approving deficit budgets.

A large surplus amassed prior to a tax decrease voted in the late '60s has been steadily decreased annually as operation expenses mounted.

Pond said he will give commissioners a copy of the preliminary budget estimates Monday at their regular meeting and will have some time to suggest possible items which can be cut.

Pond is apparently not optimistic about coming up with a budget which will hold the line on taxes.

"Everything's up," he said. "Fuel is up the most and materials. Asphalt is costing twice as much as it did last year."

Some materials and supplies, he says, are up between 50 and 65 per cent over last year's costs.

Where can the budget be cut, then?

"If we don't have to resurface too many roads or repair the farm-to-market system, we might be able to cut some there, if we don't have another winter like we've had," he said.

Commissioners have already said they will adopt a new wage and salary study suggestion produced by the county outside auditor Bill Frances. The study calls for some salary increases for many personnel on the county pay-roll.

In an effort to glean more money for the coming year's budget, commissioners altered an illegal tax structure earlier this summer to raise another $25,000. They raised the tax percentage figures for rural and subdivision homeowners from 10 to 35 per cent to raise the money.

But, if the budget for 1975 is anything like budgets okayed by commissioners in the past, even the $25,000 won't be enough to make up a deficit.

For the current year's operations, the commissioners okayed a budget with a built-in $200,000 deficit, a deficit to be made up by tapping the ever-decreasing

Major changes planned for museum's exhibits

Some major changes are literally on the drawing board for the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum.

Most of them, if carried out, will be completed by next summer.

New Director Dr. James Hanson, who has just taken the reins of the museum from retiring Boone McClure, is generating some ideas which would change the looks of several rooms of the famous museum and which would add an historic flourish to the West Texas State University campus.

A main project now being pursued is the moving of the old T-Anchor ranchhouse from its present location on the university farm north of Canyon to a spot under large trees just north of the museum annex on campus.

University regents must approve the location of the old house on the campus and they are expected to consider the proposal at their next regular meeting in September.

Providing approval is given, Hanson said the house, constructed in the late 1880s as the first house in Randall County, will be moved to campus and restoration will begin next summer.

Hanson said his intention is not to create another entity like the Texas Tech ranch headquarters.

What he does want to do is make the house an outdoor exhibit complete with room settings of the early day era. He hopes to reproduce the interior as closely as possible to the original.

Hanson has other plans, too, for the area surrounding the ranchhouse if it is moved to campus. He wants to erect a portion of the unusual corral used at Fort Bascom, N.M., near the house south of the museum annex.

Fort Bascom was erected in eastern New Mexico to try to halt the commanchero trade with Indians. It proved to be largely unsuccessful, Hanson said, because too few soldiers were stationed there and because some of the soldiers also participated in the illicit trade.

Corrals at the fort were constructed of 12-inch thick bricks in a circular fashion. One portion of the still-standing corral will be erected on the campus, if approval is given.

An eclipse windmill donated to the museum by Potter County will complete the outdoor exhibit. Hanson hopes to have a wooden water tank constructed to go with the windmill.

Other plans are stewing now

Pay-as-you-go said to be philosophy for new hospital

When the 35-year-old Neblett Hospital gives away to a spanking new publicly-owned county hospital here around Jan. 1, a philosophy of fiscal responsibility as old as America will make the transfer from old to new facility.

The hospital staff may go from old and cramped quarters to a bright, new building, but they'll carry with them the frugality which has made Neblett Hospital a unique facility in the Panhandle.

Administrator Ray Grimes says operationally the hospital, even though financed by taxpayers, will be run "in the black" on a pay-as-you-go basis.

That philosophy has prompted Canyon's current hospital to operate without a deficit, and amazed bonding officials last year who found that the new South Randall County Hospital District could garner a top bond rating, a feat of some note.

Grimes said the philosophy will carry over in the new hospital, now under construction on a track in east Canyon. The hospital is to be occupied by Jan. 1.

"Our goal is to operationally run in the black or pay-as-you-go," Grimes said.

Currently, Neblett Hospital, the city's only hospital facility, is owned by a non-profit corporation. Upon completion of the new hospital, all assets of the hospital will be transferred to the new taxpayer-owned facility.

While operating in the black, Grimes said the profits from Neblett Hospital have been plowed back into updated equipment and other needed items.

"It's tough for any hospital to stay in the black," Grimes said. "By excellent cooperation of the board, the medical staff and the employees in watching costs," the old hospital has been able to maintain fiscal equilibrium.

Grimes said, though, it's getting tougher to operate in the black with spiraling inflation, mandated salary increases and other factors.

"The basic thing is to maintain an occupancy that will allow you to operate in the black," he said. "But, there are some problems.

School annexation on agenda for Randall school trustees

Members of the Randall County School Board, under the shadow of a lawsuit which alleges they have deliberately stalled a decision on annexation of 50 acres of land to Amarillo, will consider making that decision in about two weeks.

Randall County Judge Woody Pond said Friday the board will meet during the last week of this month and one item on the agenda will be "consideration of annexation" of the property from the Canyon to the Amarillo school district.

Even though the item is on the agenda, Pond warned, that doesn't mean the board members will make a decision at their next meeting.

"I don't know what they'll do," he said. "It's up to the president and the rest of the board."

The meeting will be the first for the board since five residents of a subdivision developed by Glenn O'Dell just south of the Amarillo-Canyon school district line in south Amarillo filed suit in district court here to force a decision by either the board or the district judge.

Board members have met with O'Dell at least twice during the past year to hear pleas that the 50-acre tract be annexed by the Amarillo district so school children won't have to go to Canyon schools.

O'Dell presented a petition at one time to the board, withdrew it and then presented another petition calling for the annexation.

The lawsuit filed by the five residents asks district judge E. E. Jordan to decide the annexation issue himself and direct the board to approve annexation by the Amarillo board.

It also asks that the election of several of the county board members be declared illegal and that the members be ejected from office.

An answer filed last week by Assistant Dist. Atty. Bill McKinney, who is acting as attorney for the school trustees, asks Jordan to throw the suit out of court because his court lacks jurisdiction of the issue. The answer alleges the petitioners have not pursued other administrative avenues to solve their problem and that once those avenues have been pursued, they have recourse in the Travis County district court and not in a Randall County district court.

Board members in mid-July indicated to The News their current feelings concerning the annexation issue.

Board President R. B. Gist Jr. declined to comment on whether or not he favors annexation of the tract by the Amarillo district.

Board Member C. M. Purcell said he is against annexation by Amarillo, citing the fact that none of the residents involved have paid any school taxes to either school district. Purcell also cited the fear of steady erosion of the Canyon district tax base if land is allowed to join with Amarillo.

Don Marsh, another board member, told The News he favors annexation to Amarillo if that is the decision desired by the majority of the residents of the 50-acre tract. In effect, the five residents who filed the lawsuit in July are the only residents of the acreage.

Board member Joe Turpin said he would currently be opposed to the annexation.

J. D. Barker, board member at large, had no comment.

Locals view Nixon resignation with relief and hope for future

A local economist and political scientist viewed the resignation of President Nixon with relief and said they feel the move portends well for the country this week following the dramatic Thursday night announcement.

Dr. Barry Duman, chairman of the department of economics at West Texas State University, said the move was needed to restore confidence in the country's economy.

He said stock market rallies throughout the week prior to the President's announcement indicate confidence could be restored in some measure with the resignation.

But, he said he's not sure the temporary change of heads of state will be enough to reduce problems on a long-range basis, problems such as spiraling inflation.

"Maybe Congress can get down to work and start doing some things," he said. "Maybe it will encourage people to try to hold down their consumption and start saving money."

Duman had earlier said the psychology of recession is important in that it creates an atmosphere of doubt and lack of confidence. He had called on the government to take control of the situation and pass needed legislation to stop inflation.

Dr. Walter Shelly, professor of political science at the university, predicted the resignation of Nixon will have a "restoring" effect on the nation.

"It will restore the qualities which we Americans had long identified with the highest office in the land," he said.

He said the attitude of the American public may have forced the resignation as people reacted to Nixon's confession of guilt in the cover-up of the Watergate break-in last Monday.

"What the American people reacted to was a criminal offense," he said, "and as long as the people continue to react to this the Presidency will be strengthened not weakened. The people didn't weaken the office. Richard M. Nixon weakened the office."

Shelly said he does not believe the resignation will set a bad precedent for future presidencies which run into trouble.

In addition, he doesn't feel the resignation marred the image of the American system abroad.

"If I were in a foreign land and I saw this peaceful transition of power, because of what appeared to be criminal acts, I would have nothing but a sense of envy for that type of system," he said.

The resignation, he said, reflects the strength of the American system of government.

"If we let the system work itself, it tends to produce results which most men can reasonably

Washington events remote from city

The President of the United States may have resigned only the night before, but things in Canyon, Texas, moved as they had throughout the long, hot summer.

Six thousand cars, more or less, made it from Amarillo to Canyon and back without incident on Friday. Several dozen airplanes flew over the city with no crashes reported.

Several thousand vehicles made left-hand turns off of 23rd Street with no accidents reported Friday. Three grocery stores and dozens of other local businesses made it through the day without a robbery or a burglary.

Nearly 2000 students at West Texas State University went to classes on time.

The temperature reached just below the 90-degree mark rising from a low of 60 degrees, normal temperatures for mid-August in the Panhandle.

Hundreds of employees in city businesses and in the university looked

Our World

Balm To Wounded Spirits

By ANN BROWN

Before we attempt to add more hair shirts to the ones Richard Nixon is already wearing, let's remember that more than 47 million Americans voted him into office.

And before those 47 million people get fitted for hair shirts themselves, they should recall the choices they faced.

Probably few actually voted for Nixon. They voted against George McGovern. And it should be balm to wounded spirits to meditate on how much worse off our country would likely be if McGovern had been elected.

This tragic chapter in the life of Richard Nixon became inevitable when he was elected to the most powerful office in the world. Many of us, who were convinced he was not big enough for the place, have been surprised it was so long in coming.

Eleanor Roosevelt described Nixon as a man of overwhelming personal ambition and a woeful lack of convictions.

If Nixon failed because he lacked the wisdom, moral stature, and integrity to be President of the United States, and if the people felt they had no choice but to elect him, who is to blame for this tragedy that touches the whole world?

Many of the congressmen who have been drawing their righteous robes about them, and gathering stones to throw at the President for some two years are the same politicians who limited the choices of the voters to men of the caliber of Lyndon Johnson, Richard Nixon, Hubert Humphrey, and George McGovern.

Lack of integrity is not confined to high places, however; it has become so common as to be acceptable behavior everywhere.

In our local area a bookkeeper offered proof to the owner that a delivery boy was stealing merchandise from the firm. When no action was taken, the bookkeeper asked for an explanation.

"What is the use?" asked the owner, "they all steal."

When the boy was questioned, he said, "he doesn't pay me enough to live on, so I have to steal."

There was probably a measure of truth in both men's contentions. But if we no longer expect integrity in the lower strata of our society, how can we expect it at the top?

The unprecedented tragedy that this nation experienced on Aug. 8, 1974, was made inevitable when our society abandoned the eternal verities in favor of situation ethics.

Our nation was born of voluntary compliance with law and order. We could never afford enough policemen if every American had to be forced to obey our laws.

Will this traumatic experience open the nation's eyes to the importance of personal integrity? Or will it be just another chapter in the same old story of the thief who was sorry — not that he stole, but that he was caught?

Of all the speeches that were made Aug. 8, did anyone hear God mentioned — except by the humiliated President?

But whether or not God's name was called, the events that culminated in the fall of the man from the most powerful position on earth were eloquent evidence that standards of right and wrong still exist, and Americans want right to prevail.

Now if those same standards are applied to the Congress and Supreme Court, and every American, high or low, rich or poor, male or female, and black or white, it will act as a healing cathartic for our sick society.

Aug. 8 was a sad day. It was also a day to be proud of America. Our fallen leader did not go out in a hail of gun fire or via suicide. He departed with order and dignity.

The United States still has the best system on earth. We have the greatest freedom, the nearest to social and political equality, the most prosperity, and the greatest ratio of God-fearing people in the world.

And if under the leadership of our New President, we will follow the admonitions in II Chron. 7:14, our Ship of State shall sail again with pride and honor.

Leave Him To Himself

By CARROLL WILSON

In a strictly legal sense, former President Nixon should be susceptible to further criminal proceedings through the nation's courts.

If no man is above the law, then neither should a President who resigns after admitting criminal activity be above the law.

More compelling is the argument that Nixon must face the criminal process to prove to the generation now in elementary school that America is a nation of laws and those laws apply equally to all men. These youngsters, the argument goes, must not be allowed to believe that the system falters when it faces a man in high station.

Or, goes another argument, the whole truth must come out through the trial courts. America must learn the whole story about the President's involvement in Watergate.

The criminal court process in America serves several purposes. One is to obtain the truth. Another is to act on that information, possibly punishing the wrong-doer. And another is to ensure that justice is meted on a fair and equal basis.

What actually would be served by further prosecution of former President Nixon?

The American system of constitutional government has already been vindicated. That Nixon was forced to step down from power is testimony to that fact.

The system, the younger generation may be told, works. The people did emerge victorious in the process.

The whole truth of the Watergate affair and the President's involvement would not further the fact that the system works. The airing of the whole truth will accomplish little not already accomplished.

Certainly, pursuing the President through the courts would or could further punish Nixon. If this us a primary function of criminal procedure, it is a displaced function. The former President, a man who craved massive power, is now powerless. His punishment has already been meted. Further punishment would again accomplish little.

Justice has been served. On a very real plane, Nixon got what was coming to him. And, in a very real sense, the justice which has met up with Nixon has been fair.

Nixon should be allowed to retire in California, fallen and beaten and with the time to contemplate his guilt.

End Of The Prince

(An Editorial)

Let us hope that the era of Watergate is receding.

Richard Nixon left the White House with dignity. In his departure he did not grovel.

There was little vindictiveness from those who had opposed him.

Nixon undoubtedly is guilty of some of the things of which he is accused. Americans made him the most powerful man in history. There is every indication that what he did was done for what he thought to be the greater good of his country.

For this same reason, Winston Churchill set up the sinking of the Lusitania while he was first lord of the British admiralty in World War I hoping to draw the U.S. into the conflict on the side of England.

Love of country or wanton murder?

Franklin Roosevelt allowed the U.S. Pacific fleet to be sunk by the Japanese in order to enrage America into World War II against the Axis.

Love of country or high treason?

A prince walks in an international world of the jungle where lip service is paid to law but where there actually is none. And a president is in every aspect a prince while he sits in the Oval office.

It is little wonder that they sometimes act with what they deem expedience instead of integrity as defined by lesser men.

If Richard Nixon is indeed ever brought to trial he cannot receive due process under the constitution he is accused of violating.

A jury of his peers could only be assembled from other heads of state who themselves also have occupied the lonely pinnacle.

accept," he said. "It tells you that there is something to the idea that if you give the people the light they will find the way.

"A lot of people scorn the man in the street, but if he is presented the facts, he will make the proper decisions."

Shelly said the events which befell Nixon probably strengthened the nation's system of checks and balances in the top three branches of government. He doesn't feel the resignation will produce a pre-eminent Congress.

Neither does he believe the resignation proves the cynical view that all politicians are crooked.

"That type of thinking leaves a lot to be desired," he said, "particularly in a democratic society which is based on the concept of self-government. If too many people really believe that, our system would be in serious trouble."

Shelly said he believes the former President should be susceptible to further trial court action for his actions in the Watergate business.

He said if the President is not pursued in the courts, it will leave a bad mark on history and will indicate to our children that certain things are excusable under the law.

forward to a peaceful, sunshiny weekend.

Two young boys returned 25 cents to The Canyon News they had found on a News vending machine.

Passersby on the downtown square stopped and chatted as usual, but their discussions, true enough, often centered on the plight of the President.

In short, Friday was a typical summer day.

The scandal in Washington touched the lives of locals only indirectly.

Dr. John Kahler, professor of history at WTSU, called The News, for example, to impart a bit of historical interest: So far in American history, no Republican civilian President has served a full two terms in office. The only two Republican Presidents to serve their two terms were U.S. Grant and Dwight D. Eisenhower, both generals and West Point graduates.

At the West Texas State University library, two employees in the government documents section were involved in the Watergate business.

They spent much of their morning trying to unsort library numbers on several volumes of material they received from the House Judiciary Committee concerning recent impeachment proceedings.

Like inflation — what will it do to us? It will cause problems in collections.

"There's always an unknown amount of indigents and bad debts. But, we've been fortunate not to be saddled with lots of these."

Another factor which could have some effect on making the pay-as-you-go philosophy work will be start-up costs associated with opening the new hospital.

"The costs of purchasing minor equipment and supplies and getting the bugs worked out usually take a considerable amount of money," he said.

Room rates should remain in bounds when the transition is made to the new hospital, Grimes said, although future salary increases mandated through federal minimum wage legislation could impact on future rates.

He expects the moving-in costs to impact much less on rates than will future salary increases.

Though interest in boxing seems to be present in neighboring towns, interest in Canyon is not high. There were only 11 present at the initial meeting to reorganize the local boxing club. Out of the 11, not all were interested in the boxing program for the boxing alone and not all would be working with the Canyon program.

The club will be approaching civic clubs to ask for support and people to assist them in the program. As they do, the support may not be whole-hearted.

Why?

Professional boxing has left a stigma in the mind of the public that has not yet been overcome. Some locals made the statement in passing conversation that they saw no sport in boxing. They said that for two people to get in a ring and hit away was not enticing to them.

Boxing is not teaching boys the manly art of self-defense because who fights clean when they are out for blood? True when one steps into the ring, there is a style that must be followed and the stamina of a boxer must be strong. There is still that past that has not been forgotten.

The thing to keep in mind is that the local boxing club is not professional. It is made up of youngsters. Youngsters who need something to do. Youngsters who need to excell in something. Youngsters who need to develop physical skills. There are those who cannot excell in other sports that may excell in boxing; and I for one think they should be given a chance. Though there are other sports that could be better for them than the slug fest of boxing.

One of the toughest ways to try to reorganize is to have debts from the past season. This is one of the things that is a hardship for the boxing club. The club owes for insurance on the boys who participated during the past year. The debt amounts to around $94. When someone or some group comes through with the money, the way will be smoother for the club.

Another problem for the club is "where do we fight?" The building used last year now houses a motor parts business. Judge Woody Pond is looking and may soon find a place for the club to work out and to host tournaments.

Happy Cowboys Face Tough Season

Though the season is three months away, Coach Bob Schneider would like to find another assistant coach before school starts this month. Schneider, who lost both assistants when they were offered head coaching jobs, has one assistant but is looking for another — preferably a woman. If she can be found, she will work with seventh, eighth, ninth and assist with the high school teams.

Schneider and his staff will face a tough season this year. Only one starter and one letterman will be back from last year's team. The starter, Robena Johnson, who will be a junior and the letterman, Denise Hamblen, will find themselves members of a varsity team made up of last year's junior varsity and possible some sophomores.

The team this year will not be as tall as last year's team.

Among those coming up that will hopefully give the varsity strength are forwards Louise Davis, junior, Brenda Stevens, senior, and Carrie Kamfield. Guards coming up are Penny Peckenpaugh, Marci Davis and Polly Crawford.

Schneider is counting on Vicky Gerber assisting the team if she overcomes a knee operation performed in the spring.

The junior varsity that is coming up may not offer varsity experience that is needed but they do come off a winning season. The JV lost to the Follet Varsity for their only defeat last season.

Shoes and light workout equipment was issued Wednesday to members of the 1974 Happy Cowboy football team. Cleve Vessels, in his first year as head coach at Happy High School, stated that 21 boys reported for the year's first team meeting.

Vessels said that prospects for the coming year look bleak. According to Top 'O Texas football magazine, the Cowboys are rated fourth in the North zone of class 2-B. Class 2-B is divided into a north and south zone each with seven teams.

Only 11 or 12 members of last year's four win, six loss team will be returning, according to Vessels. Top quarterback Lonnie Tackitt, a six feet-one inch, 160-pound senior, will not play for the Cowboys this year because of a back injury suffered last season. Tackitt was a big key to the hopes of this year's team. Tackitt was thought to be one of the top class B quarterbacks in the state.

Out of the 21 who showed Wednesday, nine were freshmen. Vessels stated that there are only a couple of sophomores out for the team this year. Last year Happy had 28 to begin the season wearing the black and gold of Happy High. When the season ended, only 18 were left on the squad.

Vessels, who served as head basketball coach and assistant football coach for three years at Chilicoathe and was freshman coach at 4-A Lewisville High School for one year, said that he hopes the boys out for the team this year will pick up on offensive and defensive plays that he will be presenting this year. Vessels feels that he has 12 who will be a real asset to the team this year. If injuries plague the Cowboys as they did last year, Vessels will have a tough row to hoe. Last year there were five or six major injuries that dashed the Cowboys hope for a shot at the district title.

Terry McDonald will step into the quarterback role in the place of Tackitt this year. McDonald is a five feet-eight inch, 155-pound junior. He started as a defensive end last fall.

Another top prospect for Happy is Johnny Payne, a six feet-one inch, 175-pound senior who started both ways last year. Payne is fullback for Happy. Payne is also picked in the top 22 players for class B in the Panhandle according to Top 'O Texas magazine. Payne is a safety on defense in the top 22 players.

Another Cowboy listed in the top 22 is Rocky Williams, a six feet-one inch, 225-pound senior. Williams plays center for the Cowboys on offense. Williams was All-District both ways last fall.

Starting guards from last year's team will be returning. Kyle Todd, a five feet-nine inch, 165-pound senior and Ronnie Jackson, a six feet, 165-pound senior will return at the guard position.

The tackle positions will have only one returning starter. He is Richard SoRelle, a five feet-10 inch, 190-pound junior. The other tackle position is up for grabs and, according to Vessels, may be filled by a freshman.

Pat Sims, five feet, nine inches tall and 130 pounds, will be returning to an end position where he started last year. Sims is a senior this year.

In the backfield, Allan Fowler, junior, Keith Deitz, sophomore, Eddie Pearson and "hopefully' J.T. Henry will be fighting it out for the halfback slot. Henry did not report Wednesday but according to Vessels, he thought Henry was out of town.

Speed may be one of the weaknesses for the Cowboys during the coming season as they have no one to replace the breakaway threat of Greg Looney who graduated last spring.

Two freshmen are big prospects for Vessel's team this year. They are 215-pound Jim Bob Sims and 160-pound Tim Parker. Both boys could add a good deal of size to the line for the Cowboys.

The Cowboys will scrimmage Vega Aug. 22 and Lafors Aug. 30. Vega is rated fourth in Top 'O Texas for class A schools. Lafors is fourth for B schools.

The black and gold for Happy will face a tough pre-district schedule. Sept. 6, the Cowboys will face Claude in Claude. Claude is rated fourth in district 2-A of which it is a member. Claude has four offensive and three defensive regulars returning for the coming season. Last year Claude tied for the district title with an 8-2 record. But like the Cowboys, Claude Mustangs will lack experience, speed and size.

On Sept. 13, Happy will meet Bovina at Bovina. Bovina is ranked third in district 3-A, according to pre-season polls. They finished the season strong last fall winning their four last games. Fifteen juniors will complement the Mustangs of Bovina.

Boys Ranch will travel to Happy Sept. 20. Boys Ranch is set in fifth place in district 1-AA. Boys Ranch will lack speed and size. Their strong points will be experience, desire and hustle.

Happy will begin their district play against Amherst at Happy High stadium. Amherst is rated third in the district. Amherst will have 11 returning lettermen from last year's successful 7-3 season. Six offensive and seven defensive starters will return.

The Cowboys will travel to Matador on Oct. 4. Matador, rated second in pre-season polls, went all the way to the State Semi-Finals before losing a game to Rule last year. Matador will be under a new coach this year and five starters graduated.

On Oct. 11, the Cowboys will play powerful Sudan in Happy. Sudan is ranked number one in pre-season polls. Sudan moves to class B this year after successfully competing in class A. The Hornets of Sudan operate from a powerful T formation and are aggressive.

After facing the toughest teams on their 2-B schedule, Happy will encounter fifth ranked Valley in Valley Oct. 17. The Patriots will be returning nine offensive and ten defensive starters plus two starters from the year before last who did not play last year. The Patriots are also moving to class B from class A. Experience should be a strong point for Valley High. Lack of speed will be their biggest hinderance. Valley will run the Wing T on offense and use a 5-2 defense.

The Cowboys will host Groom, which is rated first in district 1-B, on Oct. 25. The Tigers have experience, size and are strong as they approach the coming season. Groom will return 16 lettermen this year. Six started on offense and 10 on defense.

On Nov. 1, Happy will return to 2-B north competition as they host Lazbuddie. Lazbuddie, rated last in the district, is faced with rebuilding this year. Last year the Longhorns had problems scoring more than one touchdown per game. Lazbuddie, like Happy, will be forced to use freshmen on the varsity this fall.

The final game of the 1974 season will be against Nazareth in Nazareth. Nazareth, rated sixth in 2-B North zone, won only one game last fall and ended in the 2-B cellar. There will be nine offensive regulars and eleven defensive regulars returning from last year's team.

Hughey To Assist With Girls Basketball

Barry Hughey will assist Bob Schneider, head girls basketball coach at Canyon High School, during the coming year. Hughey, hired this summer to replace John Morrow, comes to Canyon from Whiteface where he has coached girls basketball for the past two years.

Morrow and Diana Lewis both resigned earlier this summer to take head coaching jobs at 2-A schools in Post and Abernathy.

Hughey was head coach for girls basketball. Prior to coaching at Whiteface, he coached at Hart for two years and for one year at Gorman. While at Gorman, he coached boys basketball.

Hughey will also work with the sophomore football team.

Hughey said that his goal in coaching is similar to that of John Wooden, head coach at UCLA. "Success is the peace of mind that comes from knowing you have done the best you are capable of doing." He stated that this is the idea he hopes to give to students.

Hughey, his wife Linda and their nine month old son Lance reside at 510 12th Ave. in Canyon.

Former Eagle Offered Flying Queen Scholarship

Lynn Davis, member of the 1974 state championship girls Eagle basketball team at Canyon High School, will travel to Plainview Friday where she will sign with Wayland Baptist College to play for the Flying Queens.

Miss Davis was offered the scholarship following her play in the Texas All-Star - Oklahoma All-Star game played in Hutchenson Gym on the Wayland campus. Dean Weese, coach of the Flying Queens, said that Lynn was the outstanding player of the game.

She was all-state guard during her junior and senior years for Canyon High. From seventh grade until a sophomore she had played at forward but was moved to guard by Coach Bob Schneider because of her quickness and ball handling.

Miss Davis was selected to play in the North-South Texas coaches All-Star Game and was named to the all-tourney team during the state tournament. She was listed as a member of the Panhandle-Plains super team as a guard last year.

Schneider said that she should make a good college player. Pointing out the fact that she is only five feet-five inches in height, Schneider stated that she plays big. He said she should be able to compete with those four inches taller. Schneider said that Miss Davis will have to work on her shooting because of her play at the guard position during the last two years. He feels that she should do good because of her ball handling ability and her great attitude.

Miss Davis said that the biggest goal before her now is "is just getting to play" for the Queens. She stated that she had for changes on the inside of the museum itself.

Museum. . .

A major change will be accomplished in the large front room into which visitors to the museum now walk to begin their tour of the facility. Currently, the room is jammed with saddles, barbed wire displays, branding irons and other exhibits.

Hanson plans to make the room a "Hall of Texas," tracing the history of the state from its origins to today with focus on the Panhandle.

A main feature of the hall will be the powerful figure of the Texas Ranger which has been on exhibit in other parts of the museum for many years. The figure will be bronzed to dominate the room.

Another significant feature will be used to close the windows which now open to the museum street front. Eight displays will replace the windows and each display will be of a military figure dressed in a uniform of the different period of Texas history.

The first figure will be a French soldier of the early 18th Century. The second will be a representative of the Cuera Dragoons, who wore leather jackets sturdy and thick enough to stop Indian arrows. The Cuera Dragoon was stationed in Texas by the Spanish during the era of the American Revolution.

The third figure will be a Texas Dragoon, a special soldiering unit set up by the Mexican government in the 1830s. The uniform features a green jacket with brass and leather helmet.

A Texas Republic Army cavalry trooper will be the fourth figure. A red jacket and flop hat were features of the uniform worn around 1840.

A sky blue uniform will grace the figure of a Mexican War soldier in the fifth display.

The sixth will be a Texas Ranger of the 1880s dressed out in buckskins. The seventh will be a Confederate soldier with gray jacket and blue pants. And, the eighth will be a U.S. Cavalry soldier of Indian War vintage.

Another major change is planned in a center room of the museum, the room which now houses the museum gun display and other items.

On the west side of the room, Hanson plans to place cowboy materials, everything from the tools he used to the food he ate.

In the center of that portion of the room will be an exhibit featuring the old chuck wagon and cooking utensils.

The story of the cowboy from early days in the Panhandle all the way to modern feedlots will be told in the exhibit and displays.

Hopefully, Hanson said, although plans are not yet firm, opposite the cowboys on the east side of the room will be the Indian display.

Hanson said he plans to have the two first rooms completed by June 1.

Player Picked For Pre-Season All-MVC Team

Merced Solis a six feet two inch 221 pound senior at West Texas State University was the only WTSU player to be named to the pre-season All-Missouri Valley Conference football team. Solis took the tight end slot by leading all the Valley's tight ends last season by virtue of his 35 receptions for 499 yards.

Ten returnees from last year's all-MVC team head this season's all-league pre-season team. The team was chosen by the Conference's head coaches for the first time this year.

Jeff Lloyd a six feet five inch 222 pound junior from WTSU was chosen for the "Those with break-through potential" category. Lloyd is offensive lineman at WT.

WT's placement kicking specialist Bruce Wyre was named for break-through potential. Wyre, a five feet 11 inch 160 pound junior will be doing most of the field goal kicking for WT this year. Last year Wyre had 9 for 9 extra point tries and 6 out of 7 field goals. One for 58 yards setting a stadium and school record.

On defense, John Ayers a six feet five inch 232 pound junior was named as a lineman with break-through potential. Rick Mordecai, 5-11, 170 pounds, was named as a defensive back with break-through potential. Mordecai is a senior at WT.

Dominating the team were defending co-champion Tulsa and Louisville, with six players each. Drake followed with four, while the Valley's other co-champion, North Texas State and New Mexico State both had three each.

Topping the offensive unit was Louisville's diminutive dazzler, Walter Peacock, the 5-7 by 165 running back who carried 290 times for 1,294 yards, an average of 117.4 a game, while on his way to garnering the Valley's offensive player-of-the-year award. Peacock led all in scoring with 72 and topped the kickoff returners with a 32.9 average. In all, Peacock accounted for 1,900 yards last year.

Joining him are two other members of last fall's honor backfield, Tulsa's Freddie Carolina and Drake's Jim O'Connor, who tied for the second running-back slot on the pre-season unit. Last year, O'Connor finished second in the league with 93 yards a game. Carolina averaged just under 50 a game, but also caught 38 passes, to rank second, and scored 48 points, tying for third.

The other returning offensive honoree is Tulsa's kicking specialist, Arthur Bennett, who finished second behind Peacock in scoring with 52 points, and led the league in kick scoring with 52 (28 of 30 extra points and 8 of 14 field goals).

Grabbing the quarterbacking spot was Tulsa's Jeb Blount, who turned Tulsa's offensive approach into a diversified attack at mid-season with his arrival. The wide receivers included one of Blount's favorite marks, Steve Largent (33 catches for 501 yards), and Wichita State's fleet Stan Ricketts who was third in the league's receiving race with 36 for 615 yards. Solis will be tight end.

Size and quickness are featured in the offensive line. There, New Mexico State's Gary Hull, a 6-4 by 235 tackle ranks as the only sophomore to make the offensive honor unit. With him at tackle is Drake's Mark Becker (6-4 and 240). At guards are North Texas State's Dennis Lemmons (6-1 by 255), and Louisville's Bruce Nickerson (6-3 by 240).

Leading the defensive unit is Tulsa's Al Humphrey, called the league's leading candidate for national honors by the coaches. A 6-3 by 225 linebacker with exceptional quickness and mobility, Humphrey was the runner-up last year in the race for the league's defensive player-of-the-year award. Teaming with him at linebacker on the team is another all-Conference returnee, Joe Lee Phillips (6-3 by 210) of Louisville, and Drake's Bruce Samples (6-0 by 220).

Up front, Tulsa's Ken Thomas, an all-league performer last fall, is listed with Louisville's Marty Smith (6-3 by 245), New Mexico State's Terry Shiveley (6-2 by 220) and North Texas State's Walter Chapman (5-10 by 238). Chapman, only a sophomore, was the Conference's freshman defensive player-of-the-year, and earned a spot on one of the all-Conference teams chosen.

The deep backs include a pair of returning all-Conference performers, North Texas State's Don Dunlap, and Drake's Glenn Lott. Dunlap (6-0 by 183), tied for the top in interceptions with six. Lott (6-2 by 205) won his spot as a linebacker last year, but will operate as a safety this time around.

With them will be Wichita State's Phil Ellis (5-9 by 175) and Louisville's Norman Heard (6-2 by 175), a junior. The punter is Louisville's Wilbur Summers, who led the Valley in that department with a 42.4 average for 83 kicks last fall. Summers, a junior, also kicked for 46 points, including nine field goals.

She said that she had planned to attend WT until the scholarship offer was made. The scholarship that she has been offered compares to the largest offered to girl athletes at Wayland.

The youth of the First Christian Church will have a "Day at the Lake" outing Aug. 17 at Lake McClellan. Details will be worked out during the youth meeting Sunday.

Three Features Remain For Museum Showing

Only three more weekends remain for the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum's Sunday afternoon features. The Museum is located in Canyon on the southern edge of the West Texas State University campus.

Laurel and Hardy, Ben Turpin and the Little Rascals will provide the merriment on Aug. 11. Starring with Laurel and Hardy will be Jean Harlow. The three silent shorts will last a total of 30 minutes.

On Aug. 18, the Museum will show an hour-long silent film, "The Leatherneck," produced by movie mogul Cecil B. DeMille. The stars should tease many an individual's childhood memories, because they include William Boyd, who later achieved fame as Hopalong Cassidy, and Allen Hale, Sr., noted actor and father of Allan Hale, the captain in the television show "Gilligan's Island."

Presentation times are 2:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. in the Museum Annex basement. Admission is free.

For their last weekend, the Museum is providing a unique treat when they plan to fire up their antique popcorn wagon out on the lawn. The gay red-and-white wagon with the shiny accoutrements was first purchased in 1915 by R.E. Sharp of Clinton, Iowa, for $1,045.00. The popcorn will be free, no matter in what condition, beginning at 2:30 p.m.

Sixth Grade Band Registration Set

All sixth grade students at Gene Howe and Rex Reeves Elementary Schools who are interested in band are scheduled to meet along with their parents at their respective schools. Gene Howe students are to meet Aug. 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the Gene Howe cafeteria. Rex Reeves students are to meet Aug. 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the Rex Reeves cafeteria.

According to J.W. King, Jr. and Richard Bales, directors of Canyon school bands, those students who indicated an interest in playing a band instrument at the time of the giving of the Selmer Music Guidance Survey are asked to attend. Also new students who have moved into the school district and are interested in band are invited to attend.

King and Bales will discuss the features of the sixth grade band program, the rental purchase plan for band instruments and will be available for individual conference with parents and students. A commercial display of band instruments available through the rental-purchase plan will be part of the program in each school.

For those unable to attend the meeting, students may register for band at school registration and make arrangements for conferences during the regular band class after school officially begins.

All students entering the sixth grade in August are eligible to enroll in band classes. Class lessons on instruments are free of charge. Lessons are given during the regular music period. Students are not taken from other subjects to participate in the band program. The class period for band is usually 45 minutes in length.

Music for these classes is furnished by the school district with the exception of one or two instruction books for the first year. These books cost about $1.50 each.

Band students are started on five basic wind instruments and percussion. The five wind instruments are cornet, clarinet, saxophone, trombone and flute. A limited number may be started on Tuba, French Horn, and Baritone Horn with the school furnishing these instruments where available. Percussion students are limited to five per class per year.

Instruments may be obtained on a "rental-purchase" plan from most any music store, according to King. This plan allows one to get a new instrument and pay only rent until he is assured the child will continue. The trial period is usually two months in duration, according to King. If one decides to keep the instrument, all of the rent paid is applied to the cost of the instrument.

King encourages those who will buy used instruments to check with one of the school's band instructors to be sure that the instrument is suitable for school use and that a reasonable price is being paid. King asks that parents do not purchase an instrument without first consulting one of the band instructors.

Band may be participated in during junior high and high school. Students may also participate in both band and choir and band and sports throughout secondary school if their schedule permits.

Missionaries To Japan Visit First United Methodist Church

The first United Methodist Church of Canyon will welcome its missionaries to Japan, the Rev. and Mrs. William M. Elder, during morning worship services at 10:45 a.m., according to Bill Kent, pastor of the church.

Mr. Elder will speak during the morning worship services. He is presently assigned to Tokyo, Japan, as Personnel Secretary of the Council on Coorperation of the Kyodan Church. The Kyodan Church is the United Churches of Christ of Japan.

Mrs. Elder, the former Irene Nix of Canyon and Amarillo, will be honored by the United Methodist Women with a morning coffee, Monday at 10 a.m. She teaches English at the Y.M.C.A. in Chiba-shi and works with the women's groups in that area. She does English secretarial work for an urban-industrial center in Ichabara, Japan.

A covered dish fellowship luncheon is planned for Sunday immediately following the morning worship service.

The Elders are in the states combining business and a short furlough period. He has attended several conferences and has just returned from New York City where he attended meetings of the Japan-North American Commission, a cooperative agency of the United States, Canadian and Japanese church bodies. The month of August is being spent visiting friends and spending time with their respective families. The Elders have four children.

Miss Smith To Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hodgson Smith of Amarillo announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Karen Joanne, to Woody Kent Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Jones of 3205 Linda Lane in Canyon.

The wedding will be Sept. 27 at the Central Church of Christ of Amarillo.

Miss Smith attended Texas Tech University and the University of Texas. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta Sorority, was a President's Hostess, served on the student senate and made the dean's list.

Jones is a student at West Texas State University and is a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity.

New Special Services Director Named

Jerry Yows has been named as the new director of the Special Services program for Canyon Independent School District.

Yows comes to the local school district from Borger where he has served as an elementary school principal for the past eight years. Yows graduated from WT in 1963. He served as physical education teacher at Rex Reeves Elementary School in Canyon from 1964 until 1967.

Yows stated that he moved to Canyon to head the Special Services program because for the past two years he has wanted to get into a new and growing area of education. Yows sees Special Services as a new program that is being developed for future service. He feels that more emphasis will be put on the program in times to come.

The mechanics between Special Services and that of an elementary principal are different, according to Yows. Yows said that there is a lot of administrative duties similar to the duties of a principal. Yows pointed out that he is attempting to become familiar with the routine of the Special Services program.

He began his new work Thursday, Aug. 1.

The goal that Yows has set in the Special Services program is to "assist parents and teachers in helping the student to achieve the best education possible and to develop the student's maximum abilities."

Yows, 38 years of age, is past president of Panhandle School Leaders Association and was serving as third vice-president of the Borger Lions Club.

His wife taught in the Canyon school system at Canyon Junior High during the 1966-67 school year. She taught English. Presently, his wife is doing graduate work at WTSU. They have one daughter, Colleen, who is 10 years of age and in the fourth grade.
